AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS

R. H. EDDY, Solicitor of PATENTS
(State Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837.)
No. 76 STATE, OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

AFTER an extensive practice of upward
of twenty years, continues to secure Patent in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries.—
Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments
and Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with despatch. Research is made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of Patents or Inventions, and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing patents, unsurpassed by if not immeasurably superior to any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below give proof that none is MORE SU-CESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE
than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES
AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate.
The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents
granted in the United States and Europe,
render him able, beyond question, to offer
superior facilities for obtaining patents.

All necessity of a journey to Washington
to procure a patent, and the usual great delay
there are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."

OHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring Inventors
that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."

EDMUND BURKE,

Late Commissioner of Patents.

Boston, February 8, 1858.

"Mr. H. H. Eddy has made for me THIR-TEEN applications, on all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me
to recommend all inventors to apply to him
to procure their patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges."

JOHN TAGGART.

From Sept. 17th, 1857, to June 17th, 1858,
the subscriber, in course of his large practice,
made, on thirteen rejected applications, SIX-TEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor, by the Commissioner of Patents.

point by bold reasoning, and not by reason; and, by her refractory course, she has brought dishonor upon the good name of the whole country.

Friend Chestnut, I have read your stirring speech at Charleston with uncommon gusto. It is truly characteristic. The sentiments are Carolinian, and full of spirit, such as naturally sprout up in the dry and driving sands which compose your soil. It will do good, depend upon it. Do you remember what Pope says about "Urbis" &c? So your speech needs but to be seen to have the same excellent effect.

But my dear friend, have you ever read a treatise on constitutional law, and especially on the law of "secession," published in 1860, by one Andrew Jackson, LL.D. Is it possible you have not read it? Then let me repeat it to you again, friend Chestnut. It is worth of the closest study; for it was penned by a doctor of the common law, and though you are not familiar with its contents, I have heard that no work on law, was ever read with so much interest, and advantage by the fathers of the secessionists in South Carolina and great omission. It was that they did not ordain it a school book for the benefit of their hot-blooded offspring.

But are you certain that 10,000 men will do up the work? We have no intention of fighting you; but if you come up and fight us, that is another matter; then it is quite possible that an army of over 10,000 may be needed.

Perhaps you rely upon the aid of Governor Wise, for he, too, promises to raise and equip 10,000 men for a Northern expedition. Nay; with this puissant force, he promises to overrun the Free States, conquer Canada, and even shake the fast anchored world with his thunder. If we had not had a forecast of his prowess in the Osawatomie war, we might hope, as it is, we do tremble a good deal in anticipation of his formidable irruption. We, however, hardly believe that he can accomplish all the feats he promises, even with the gallant chivalry of Virginia, without the aid of the horned and cloven-hoofed fellow who once carried on a like war on his own account; still, in our distress, we remember that even he got worsted.

But, friend Chestnut, you have doubtless read the Greek classics, and among the rest Xenophon. His account of the wonderful retreat of the 10,000, you will remember, has been famous, in all time. But if your South Carolina, 10,000, and Gen. Toombs' 10,000, and Gov. Wise's 10,000, all come down upon us, the consequences will be awful; the glory of that retreat of the 10,000 Greeks, will be squelched out, eclipsed and utterly forgotten, in the more nimble retirement of the 10,000 under the solemn Toombs, the discreet Wise, and the peasant Carolinian chief.

I have heard it said that you have 400,000 head of bimacous cattle, which, a few months ago, were worth $1,000 per head. We don't know much about this kind of stock up here, but some of the papers say the emigrants, in your State, has reduced their value to $250 each, equal to $100,000,000. Now, my valued friend, is not this abolishing Slavery to the extent of one-quarter, and if this trivial spirit of disaffection, this threat of secession, by irate politicians, abolishes one-quarter of your Slavery, who knows but the execution of the other three-quarters will be far worse? This has always been preached up by the Garrisonians that "disruption would abolish Slavery"; and hence they have prided for it and labored for it. Now you know, my very dear friend, that I am a Black Republican; but you do not know—nor can you imagine how my heart bleeds, to see you and your orthodox Pro-Slavery friends co-operating with Garrison, and Phillips, and Smith, to verify their prophetic prognostications. My dear friend Chestnut hobnobbing with Garrison, and Phillips, and Smith to abolish Slavery in South Carolina! Tell it not in Bath, publish it not in the streets of Boston!

But were you not a little hasty in regarding your territorial honors? Only think of $3,000 a year, besides pickings and stealings! But, friend Chestnut, we are sorry for you. When we think of poor South Carolina, our eyes water; they become encrusted with salt. Poor South Carolina, poor in population, poor in poverty, poor in reputation, and poorest of all in statesmanship. Why, in 1833, the great men of South Carolina gave dignity even to treason. But Calhoun is gone, and Hayne is gone—and Chestnut is left. You are not to blame for it; a Higher Power has taken away Calhoun, and Hayne, and left Chestnut. Pity 'tis, 'tis so; but I say again, you ought not to be blamed for it.

I see that your merchants refuse to pay Northern claims; that is right; that is, if anybody is to be cheated, it should be those merchants who have been driving a heavy trade in packing up their principles along with their dry goods. But you also refuse to receive Northern manufactures; right again. Go at it yourselves. Your boundless deserts of sand offer the most capivating inducements to the manufacturers of glass; with 400,000 negroes you can supply all Christendom with glass. Go at it, by all means.

South Carolina almost equals, in wealth and population, that splendid adjunct of this State, Long Island. Only think of the "secession" of Long Island! We should hate to lose her. But, still, Long Island might flow off into the ocean, and so far as the wealth, power, and population of this State is concerned, she would hardly be missed. Ask Gov. King what he thinks of Long Island setting up on her own account. Magnificent little kingdom!

And now, friend Chestnut, my advice. Don't be hasty. Drink a glass of cool lemonade, and then look the business square in the face, and count the cost. If you do not like to bother your head with numbers, get some one else to do it. All white folks won't study numbers, and count the cost, yet a colored person to do it. I don't mean an African, but one of that class whose beautiful complexion betrays the commanding tint of cornflakes and ebony. I am told there are thousands of this class among you who know the multiplication table; get one of them to do the hard work. I know it is vulgar for gentlemen to count cast at all; but do it, this once; $30,000 is not much for scions; but there are hundreds of Palmetto scions; who are not as able as you are to lose their places and their pay. And then there will be an army and a navy, the civil list and the foreign intercourse, beside rewards for runaway negroes, and pensions to the retiring Federal officers—all these will cost something; and unless you will give yourself a little while to the vulgar business of counting the cost, you cannot know but they may exceed even the duclos which you pay on imports, which now so grind you to dust. Think of it, dear friend Chestnut, let me entreat you this once, and count the cost; and when you get a satisfactory result, make a note of it, and drop me a line.

Yours without "succession,"

MONDAY MORNING, NOV. 26, 1860.

GROSS PRESUMPTION.

We see it stated that the people of the disaffected Southern States are holding days of fasting and prayer, "for wisdom and strength to meet the crisis through which they are called to pass." This is all well enough, or would be, provided they had a cause which God could consistently bless. They will need assistance from some source before they have travelled to the end of their route.

But they have applied to the wrong source; had they applied to the devil, his Satanic Majesty would doubtless have aided them to the extent of his ability; and we should not be surprised if, even now, if he volunteered his services sufficiently to bring them to the hangman's noose, when he will desert them as he has thousands of others before them. He once got up a grand secession or rebellion himself, in heaven, being, in fact, the first disunionist of whom we have any account; and has managed to keep his hand in at the business ever since.

But it is gross presumption and insult in them to ask of the Deity to countenance their heaven-daring projects to bluster up their iniquitous "peculiar institution." We have read that pirates, before imbruting their hands in the blood of their innocent victims, have knelt down and asked the blessing of God upon their work. But there was some excuse for them on the ground of ignorance. Here, however, we have bigoted men mounting the cockpit in the pulpit and preaching secession sermons, on the day appointed for fasting and prayer!

I. O. OF O. F.

This organization appears to be, at this time, a flourishing condition in our city. Model Island, Jersey, the only one in the city—is recently built the Music Hall and adjoining rooms in Narragansett buildings, fitted them in a rich, elegant, and with a very comfortable manner, and last Friday evening they were dedicated.

The ritual in such cases made and provided is excellent, and under the direction of G. M. Steele, of Woonsocket, was rendered most impressively by the officers and choir, in the presence of a Hall full of ladies and gentlemen. The presiding officer is well known to, and enjoys the respect of, many of our citizens, while in the Order he is very popular. His reading and the reciting of the Grand Chaplain and Herald were also excellent; while the young ladies and gentlemen who furnished the music showed good discipline in chanting distinct enunciation, and contributed essentially to the evening's enjoyment.

Mr. James H. Wilson, by his performance upon the pianoforte gave another exhibition of his proficiency in divine.

After the Hall had been dedicated to "Friendship, Love and Truth," the Grand Chaplain—the Rev. Mr. Malcolm delivered an address of brevity, but full of beauty, thought and sound doctrine. It is not any exaggeration to say that it delighted the audience, for his praises are in the mouth of every one that we saw present.

We heartily congratulate Rhode Island Lodge upon their prosperity, upon their beautiful, convenient Hall, and for the success with which they met the duties of Friday evening.

A Yankee, according to the latest authority, is a driving man. He sees aque ducts in bubbling springs, buildings in stones, and cash in everything.

One day, on Mr. C.—was limping down the high street of Edinburgh, from the court of sessions, he overheard a young lady say to her companion, rather loudly:

"That is Mr. C.—the lame lawyer."

Upon which he turned round, and, with his usual force of expression, said: "No, madam, I am a lame man, but not a lame lawyer."

Washington, Nov. 24.—The position of the President is understood to be, that though the South has just cause of complaint against the North, no State is justified in seceding or in any revolutionary movement until every constitutional measure of redress has been exhausted. No State has a right to commit acts having the effect to precipitate any such condition of affairs as would induce or compel other States to join her in the disruption of the Union—and calm, dispassionate deliberation on the part of the people may result in restoring confidence and preserving the integrity of the Constitution.

It is apprehended here that the question of secession will have to be practically dealt with by the present administration, and it is stated from distinguished sources that South Carolina will resolve as soon as the convention so resolves.
